

Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.

62.17 1945
December Specials In Gallon Cans

FINE RARE TREES

$1 each, 6 for $5. Crating 50c extra on orders under $5

INDIA AMULET PLANT. (Putranjiva roxburghii). One of the most graceful of Indian trees, fairly large, with long drooping branches. The hard seeds are strung as necklaces, worn by Indian children as charms against evils.

GREEN STAR. (Polyalthia suberosa). A small East Indian tree that bears reddish-brown flowers along the branches like its close relative, the Ylang-ylang. The small fruits are conspicuously colored.

DEVIL TREE ALSTONIA. (Alstonia macrophylla). A sparingly branched Malayan tree to 50 feet with long leaves in whorls of 4, and 1/2-inch fragrant white flowers in clusters at the branch tips. Seed pods 20" long.

HOLARRHENA. (Holarrhena wulfsbergii). A West African tree to 50 feet with shining, droopy foliage, bearing large dense clusters of white, star-shaped, fragrant flowers 1" across. Fast growing. Loves the sun.

SHAVING BRUSH TREE. (Pachira fastuosa). These hybrid crosses of the red and white shaving brush, are splendid yard trees, with cool green trunk, large and showy (usually red) flowers in March before the new leaves, and gorgeous foliage.

ONION CORDIA. (Cordia alliodora). West Indian evergreen tree to 40 feet, bearing small, fragrant white flowers in large clusters. Exceptionally showy and conspicuous when in flower. In bloom a long time.

SOFT LUMBANG. (Aleurites trisperma). Philippine relative of the tung oil, this spready shade tree with big, heart-shaped leaves, also bears nuts rich in oil, has promising commercial possibilities.

PORTIATREE. (Thespesia populnea). Small, seaside tree with poplar-like evergreen foliage and attractive yellow flowers that turn purple with age. Flowers much of the year. Resists salt spray.

TRICHILIA. (Trichilia pallida). Central American evergreen shade tree of the mahogany family, bearing small white flowers in large panicles. Should be ideal parkway tree for Florida.

Let's Plant More Trees—Beautiful Trees

EDWIN A. MENNINGER

The Flowering Tree Man

STUART, FLORIDA

THIS SIDE OF CARD IS FOR ADDRESS

U. S. Dept. of Agr.
Library
Washington, D. C.